

Contents

Introduction	9
Section One—Economics of IT Management	15
Benefits of IT	19
Benefits of IT Management	23
Market Economics	25
Competition	32
Section Two—Psychology of IT Management	43
Business Goals and Motivations	46
IT Goals and Motivations	47
Business and IT Relationships	50
Service Level Management	52
IT Organization	59
Negotiations	63
Section Three —The IT Management Model	71
Business Processes	73
Tools	74
Process & Tool Relationships	76
Instrumentation	78
Management Data	81
Management Information	83
Management Analysis	87
Action Resolution	88
The Model – A Step Back	90
Comparisons with Other Management Models	91
Section Four—Understanding Problems	97
What is a Problem?	98
Basic Problem Resolution Process	99
Problem Prioritization	102
Problem Analysis – Identifying Problems	110
Problem Analysis – Fixing Problems	116
Problem Anticipation	118

Section Five—Understanding Change	123
Reasons for Change	124
Change Management Process	126
Efficiency in Repetition	130
Change and Problem Management Consistency	131
Section Six—Issues and Special Cases	133
Distributed Management	134
Management Scalability	140
Negative Management Impact	142
Reporting	143
Service Providers	148
Section Seven—Selecting Management Tools	153
Vendor Goals and Customer Goals	154
Operating System Bias	156
Standard vs. Proprietary	157
Ease of Use	161
Out-of-the-Box	162
Flexibility	163
Monolithic Tool vs. Pieces	164
Best of Breed vs. Best Integrated Tools	165
Total Cost of Ownership	167
Conclusion and Perspective	171
Additional Resources	175
Glossary of Terms and Acronyms	177
Index	185